Ohio Flood Waters Receding After Claiming Heavy Toll

3 Known Dead; Damage Figure Is In Millions

Mount Vernon Crisis Is Apparently Over; Temperatures Drop

By The Associated Press
Ohio counted an undetermined number of dead and damage in the millions of dollars today as cold weather brought a respite from its worst flood in a quarter of a century.

Some of the thousands of evacuees began trickling back to their silt-covered homes, but thousands of others were still being housed in schools and other emergency quarters.

Mount Vernon, the hardest hit of the Central Ohio cities, is out of its crisis, with some water and debris remaining to trouble most of its 16,000 residents.

There was some easing of the flood waters in other communities hit by the deluge of water, including eastern Cleveland, Columbus, Mansfield, Lima, Wooster, Kenton, Bucyrus, Hamilton, Newton Falls, Dayton and Springfield.

At least three persons are known to have drowned. Possibly 10 others died either in flood waters or accidents due to the flood conditions.

No Way To Estimate

There was no way to estimate the damage. But most officials agreed it would run into many millions. It may take weeks to count in dollars the damage done.

At Marysville in Central Ohio, where a big gas main broke Wednesday night, Ohio Fuel Gas Co. crews from 12 surrounding communities are at work trying to restore service. Falling temperatures made the situation more difficult.

Washed out bridges and water-blocked highways snarled transportation in most cities, some of which were virtually isolated.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle was unable to get to his Statehouse office because waters of flooding Alum Creek blocked east Columbus residents from getting downtown.

Since the rain has stopped, authorities looked for some relief as the rivers and streams which caused all the flooding began to recede.

The worst appeared to be over. The rain had stopped as colder weather moved in from the West. The levels of streams started to drop in central and southwestern sections of the state that were hardest hit.

In Mount Vernon, some 3,000

Vegetable Growers Re-elect Detwiler

Approximately 45 attended the Columbiana-Mahoning Counties Vegetable Institute at Heck's Restaurant, Columbiana, Wednesday.

Lester Detwiler of Leetonia RD 2 was again named chairman of the group.

Others re-elected were John Allen Cullar of North Lima, vice chairman; Walter Shank of North Lima, secretary; Ross Gorbey of Rogers, Kim Crawford Jr. of Rogers RD, Frank Papania of New Waterford RD 1 and A. C. Ferguson of Columbiana, named to the executive board.

A film on conservation, "From Ridge to River" was shown. Lyle Goleman, extension entomologist at Ohio State University, spoke on all vegetable insects for this locality, and Robert Partyska extension plant pathologist, Ohio State University, spoke on vegetable diseases that are dominating this section, especially the gray tomato disease.

E. C. Wittmeyer, extension horticulturist at Ohio State University, spoke on weeds, and chemicals that will kill weeds and equipment that will save labor for gardeners.

Vernon Patterson of Columbus spoke on marketing trends and practices concerning the local producers.

A panel discussion was held with E. C. Wittmeyer as moderator. The topic "What can producers do to cut production costs?" was discussed in detail.

Midwest Area Is Hit by Rains

Many Families Left Homeless by Deluges

By The Associated Press

Winter's most destructive and bitter elements — floods, snow storms and cold — dealt misery and suffering to millions across the eastern half of the nation today.

Thousands were homeless in floods in Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Indiana. Scores of rivers and streams, fed by heavy rains and snow, overflowed.

Flash floods harassed a dozen upstate New York communities, forcing many families to evacuate their homes. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

Deaths related to the violent weather and floods mounted. The latest count was 45.

States of emergency were declared in many Ohio cities and in at least two New York communities.

The blockbuster snow storm, which swept out of the Great Plains and dumped up to a foot of snow across the midlands, curtailed normal activities in hundreds of communities.

The biting, stiff winds which whirled the snow into big drifts paralyzed travel in many areas. Travel was snarled in the big cities where the job of snow re-

Merchandise Stolen From Rt. 7 Market

About $69.14 worth of assorted foods and meats, cigarettes, three flashlights and batteries and $1 worth of pennies were stolen by burglars who entered Carter's Market on Route 7, south of East Fairfield, sometime shortly after midnight Wednesday, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

The sheriff's night patrol found the door open and called the owners who made an inventory Wednesday of the things stolen. The deputies found one wet footprint, giving indication that the breaking and entering just happened. The door in the market was sprung open to gain entrance.

Pasternak Willing to Make Lecture Tour

LONDON (AP) — Boris Pasternak, the Russian author called a traitor by Soviet authorities after winning the Nobel Prize for Literature, reportedly is willing now to make a six-week lecture tour of the United States and Britain.

Jose Vilallonga, noted Spanish author, and Prof. Philip Hallie of Vanderbilt University are seeking to arrange the tour.

Vilallonga, who lives in Paris, said Wednesday night he had assurances "through diplomatic channels that Pasternak would be willing to come."

The Soviet government warned Pasternak last November that if he left the Soviet Union to accept the Nobel prize, he would not be allowed to return. The 69-year-old writer renounced the prize and said he could not "imagine my fate apart from Russia and outside her. . . . To go beyond the frontier of my motherland is to me equal to death."

Pasternak was designated last October for the Nobel prize primarily because of his novel "Doctor Zhivago," which paints a grim picture of Russian life under communism. The Kremlin retaliated by unleashing severe criticism of the writer and his novel, which has been published in 13 languages abroad but is banned in the Soviet Union.

man Meade Alcorn, the President called for a sustained year-around program of Republican campaigning which would imprint the image of "progressive leadership" on the party.

This was in harmony with Alcorn's own recommendations to the National Committee in its initial meeting of a two-day session that the party "preach and practice an enlightened Republicanism 365 days a year."

Saluting Alcorn's proposal for formation of a year-around campaign staff, Eisenhower said the sessions here should become "the first step in a continuous work program of the Republican party that will never cease."

"I deeply regret that some people look upon our party as a kind of hibernating elephant who wakes with a mighty trumpet blast at election time and then rests calmly until the next campaign," Eisenhower said.

"Political activity must be a matter of unrelenting effort. It must go on 365 days a year if we are to maintain the vitality that has made our nation great. Only 658 days remain until the next national election. We must make each of them count. Every day

Leetonia Emergency Results From Storm

LEETONIA — Mayor Ralph Kennedy declared a state of emergency in Leetonia around 5 p.m. yesterday when flood waters from raging East Fork of Little Beaver Creek reached the Pennsylvania railroad and divided the town.

A Civilian Defense fire truck was immediately summoned from Lisbon to protect the south side of the town, since a truck from the fire department, located on the north side of town, would have had to go to Columbiana and back to reach the south side of Leetonia.

Mayor Kennedy reports the Madison St. bridge was damaged by the ice-filled current. The bridge will remain closed until county commissioners determine the damage and declare it safe.

1 Dead, Damage High After Storm

Electrical Shock Kills G.R. Catlin

Winter's one, two, three punch staggered the Salem district, along with the rest of Ohio Wednesday and today.

First, it was rain—lots of it—then 60-mile-an-hour winds and today, more snow.

Yesterday's continual downpour during a January thaw brought two inches of rain and caused floods in all lowland areas. There was hardly a basement in Salem that didn't have water in it, some more than others.

One death resulted indirectly from the rainstorm. George R. Catlin, 39, of the Painter Road was found electrocuted at his home just east of Highland Ave. at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Perry Township Constable John Herman, Jr., said Mr. Catlin apparently was trying to repair a sump pump in the flooded basement of his home. He was standing in about six inches of water when the wiring became shorted with the water, killing Mr. Catlin almost instantly.

His body was discovered by his 12-year-old son, Dorril. Coroner William Kolozsi returned a verdict of death by electrocution and said the tragedy had occurred sometime between 12-noon and 1 p.m.

The victim, who was unemployed, had worked previously at the American-Standard Corp. plant. He was well-known as a singer. (Obituary notice is on Page 8).

Strong Winds Cause Some Damage

Much of the flood water in lowlands began to subside today after the rains ceased and freezing temperatures took over. High water still kept a number of roads closed, however.

City workers, supervised by Service Director Harry Vincent and Utilities Superintendent Aubrey Hayes, worked throughout the night to get residential basements pumped out and answer other emergency calls.

The heavy rains caused the front wall of the basement home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Utz of the West Pidgeon Road to cave in, causing extensive damage to the home and its furnishings.

The family planned to make repairs as soon as possible. Mr. Utz is an employee of the Eljer Company.

These Roads Closed By High Water:

The State Highway Patrol and the Columbiana County Highway Superintendent's office reported the following roads are still closed due to yesterday's storm.

They are: Rt. 173, between Sebring and Alliance; Rt. 344 between Leetonia and Franklin Square; Rt. 154 between Lisbon and Elkton; Rt. 558, at Franklin Square; Rt. 30 between Kensington and Minerva; County Road 412 at the county home west of Lisbon and the underpass at Homeworth on County Road 400.

County Road 410 (Depot Road) was closed at Cold Run just north of Guilford Lake but it is now open, reports John "Vic" Neill, county highway superintendent.

The highway patrol reports that Rt. 45 at its junction with Rt. 344 in the construction area between Salem and Lisbon is closed to traffic due to three feet of water.

Rt. 62 is blocked between Westville and Damascus. Persons wanting to go from Salem to Alliance must turn north on Rt. 534 at Damascus to Rt. 165. They then should follow Rt. 165 into Beloit, turn left on Rt. 173, and go to Westville where they can get back on Rt. 62.

Ohio SUB Proposal May Be Legalized

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—What looks like "the" bill to legalize simultaneous payment of supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) and state jobless compensation has been introduced in the Ohio Senate.

Its sponsors are Senate majority leader Frank W. King and Sen. Charles J. Carney (D-Mahoning), another top Senate Democrat. King reports Gov. Michael V. DiSalle was aware the bill was being offered, but he made it clear that wasn't intended to imply the governor's complete agreement.

Leetonia's 22 volunteer firemen were automatically made policemen when the state of emergency was declared by the mayor.

These men, the regular policemen, plus the Civilian Defense first aid truck and crew, and the mayor stayed on duty throughout the night.

The high winds which howled and whistled throughout the night blew down a number of tree limbs in scattered sections early this morning.

A large sign at the Groza dry cleaning shop on downtown State St. was blown down, falling onto a car owned by Edward Knox of 721 W. State St. The top and right side of the parked car was badly damaged.

The winds also blew in a large plate glass window at the Althouse Sales Corp. store on S. Lundy Ave., damaging some appliances inside the store, police reported.

A few TV antennas were toppled or bent by the strong winds, but the Ohio Edison Co. and the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. experienced only minor trouble where tree limbs fell onto lines.

Castro's downfall appears before hundreds of foreign newsmen at a news conference.

Later today, Havana's first show-case trial of Batistas charged with murder and atrocities opens. The capital's first defendants are three officers in the dictator's army, and the scene is the 17,000-seat Sports Palace which Batista built.

Nearly 1,000 witnesses wearing the colorful clothes of their rural areas were in town for the trials. American newsmen wanted to ask Castro at the news conference about his statement to the big throng Wednesday that "Cuba will ask a revision and nullification of onerous concessions given foreign enterprises by the government of Batista."

Castro singled out only the Cuban Telephone Co., part of the estimated billion-dollar American investment in Cuba, The AT&T

Enemy Sub Could Spread
Poison Gas Far Into Mainland

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP)—An enemy submarine, masked by fog or darkness a few miles offshore, could blanket almost any American coastal city with deadly germs spreading over thousands of square miles.

Fantastic? It already has been done—by U.S. Navy ships using harmless materials.

Dr. LeRoy D. Fothergill, scientific adviser at the Army's Germ Warfare Research Center at Ft. Detrick, Md., recently gave the American Medical Assn. an inkling of what might happen.

Fothergill said a U.S. Navy craft, traveling two miles offshore in moderate fog, sent up a spray of biological aerosol containing a nonpoisonous organism. The mock attack lasted 29 minutes, using 130 gallons of spray. The germs were detected as far as 23 miles away and covered 100 square miles.

What is being done to cope with the possibility of such an enemy attack, using live germs or deadly chemical gas? The Defense Department is wary about answering such questions.

The Army announced several years ago it had developed an aerosoloscope to give instant warning of a germ warfare attack. The device can count germs, dust and moisture particles as small as a micron—one forty-millionth of an inch—1,000 times faster than a microscope.

The Army Chemical Corps has developed an infrared device—known as "Lopair" (long-path infrared)—which flashes a warning light and sounds a horn upon detecting even a tiny amount of colorless, invisible contamination in the air. It has a range of a quarter mile.

This question was submitted to the Pentagon: "How many automatic nerve-gas detecting devices are now in use? Where?"

After 25 days of deliberation, the Pentagon came up with this answer: "Many of these automatic devices are in use throughout the Department of Defense. The exact number and locations of the devices is classified secret."

Less hidebound by secrecy, the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization says that by 1967 it expects to have 1½ million monitors trained to detect against chemical, biological and radiological warfare.

So far, so good, but—

The OCM admits that if an enemy should strike today with germ or chemical warfare, the American public would be unable to buy or obtain either gas masks or antigas protective clothing.

Report Shows
Severity of Ohio Recession

CLEVELAND (AP)—How much more severe the recession has been in Ohio is indicated in a Federal Reserve Report released yesterday.

The report says non-agricultural employment in the nation dropped a little more than 4 per cent from December 1956 to the low point in April 1958. But in the Fourth Federal Reserve District—which includes parts of Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia as well as all of Ohio—employment plummeted 10 per cent.

And the employment drop did not hit bottom in the Fourth District until last June, when employment for the nation as a whole was already showing improvement.

By November, employment had moved up about 2 per cent from the low point and the recovery here still was far below that shown by the nation as a whole.

"Most of the differences between nationwide and Fourth District employment trends," says the January "Business Review," published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, "are due to the greater importance in the district of manufacturing employment, and specifically, of employment in the durable goods industries, which were those most adversely affected by the recession."

But a significant part of the employment decline was due to changes in employment in non-manufacturing industries which employ about one-third more people than do the manufacturing industries in this district.

Here is how the picture shaped up in other industries, according to the Federal Reserve report.

Steel:

Mills in the Fourth District suffered a somewhat sharper reduction during the recession than the rest of the country, and recovery was slower. Major reason for this is the predominant role played by mills of the district in supplying the automotive and machinery industries, which were hard hit by the recession.

Shipping:

The relative slackness in the industry was reflected last year in the smallest ore shipping season on the Great Lakes since 1939.

CadillacWithout Precedent...Even Among Cadillacs!*

It has long been understood that the one true way to judge a Cadillac is to measure it against another Cadillac!

And yet, even this historic yardstick is not completely applicable for 1959. For this newest "car of cars" is without precedent—even among Cadillacs!

Standing regally at the curbside, in motion on the highway, or making its grand entrance at some distinguished event—its majestic new styling is always the subject of unstinted admiration.

Cadillac's new fabrics and leathers are breath-taking to behold . . . appointments are crafted with a jeweler's care . . . and its interiors are so spacious that entering and leaving are accomplished with wonderful ease and grace.

And the car is easy to handle, so obedient and responsive to the touch and so smooth and silken in action that even the longest journey is a pleasure to anticipate—and a joy to recall.

Without precedent, did we say?

Well, we'll have to confess that there are some ways in which this new Cadillac is very much like its distinguished predecessors. There is the great quality of its craftsmanship, for instance . . . its remarkable dependability . . . and its extraordinary economy of ownership.

But with these happy exceptions, Cadillac for 1959 is clearly in a class all of its own!

So whether you are looking forward to your first Cadillac—or your fifth—or even your tenth—you have a great discovery ahead of you.

We suggest you visit your dealer soon for a personal demonstration of this brilliant new Cadillac.

Big Labor Will Have Objections

What was reported first as a rumor now is being reported as a fact: The Republican National Committee will be urged to change the big-business image of the Republican party.

The Wall Street Journal says this will be one of the committee chairman's recommendations when the committee meets at Des Moines. But it is no easier to understand as a fact than it was as a rumor.

Aside from the fact the Republican party should be proud to bear the reputation of being able to understand the source of the nation's wealth, there is the further fact that nothing the Republican party can do will make its political opponents quit accusing it of being over-sympathetic to business. That has been, since the time of William Jennings Bryan, the chief stock in trade of one kind of Democratic orator.

It has paid off; it has been good politics. Its lack of truth has not hurt it in the last. In every campaign, sooner or later, Democratic candidates have fulminated against the Republican party on the grounds of its affiliation with big business, Wall Street, bankers, the gold standard, "malefactors of great wealth" and so on. It is one of the oldest political tricks in the book and nothing under the sun will make Democrats quit using it — as long as it works.

But the thought must have occurred to millions of Americans the last few years that Republicans are entitled to a counterattack. They could start mentioning more pointedly the opposition's reputation for understanding how to get along with the big men of the labor unions and the Big Daddies of the Solid South.

There is a remarkable bond of sympathy between and among them even when they pretend they are checking up on another. If the theme were hammered on hard enough, the idea that what is good for Walther Reuther is good for the country might hurt a little. Or the idea that what is good for Orval Faubus is good for the country. The very thought gives Democrats the willies.

John Foster Dulles and Appeasement

Any day now, some hot-head is going to throw a monkey wrench in the meshing gears of understanding between the Western Powers and the Soviet Union on the subject of Germany.

The wrench will consist of one word: Appeasement.

It will be charged that Secretary of State Dulles, renowned for his irreconcilable views on Soviet perfidy, finally has been badgered into appeasement of the Kremlin, in the hope of averting war over Berlin and the larger issue of German reunification.

The charge could come as easily from Britain as the United States. It could come from France, Belgium, the Netherlands or a non-European source. It would do great damage.

It would evoke the recollection of a British prime minister trying to buy off Adolf Hitler to get "peace in our time." It would blot out the difference between the Munich agreement in 1938 to break up the Czechoslovak Republic to satisfy Hitler and the agreement that may be reached in 1959 to rationalize the long-unsettled problem of administering to a defeated Germany.

Just as discussion, such as has been going on here with Deputy Premier Mikoyan, is not negotiation, neither is negotiation appeasement. Nor is an open mind necessarily a sign of weakness, as it was called this week by his critics when Mr. Dulles admitted there might be other ways to reunify Germany than by means of free elections. If this sticking point between the Soviet Union and the Western Powers could be bypassed in some way, that would not constitute surrender and Mr. Dulles did well to say so.

He has been the subject of critical discussion on the grounds that his immovable positions make negotiation with the Soviet Union impossible. It is a fact, whether Mr. Dulles is personally responsible for it or not, that the United States has drifted into the position of being opposed to what the Kremlin proposes—the position formerly held by the Kremlin, when it opposed everything the United States proposed.

If there now should be a change—and if the change were manifest in the attitude of Secretary of State Dulles—it would not be appeasement. The accusation would be made. It would be damaging. But it would not be true—not of John Foster Dulles.

Hold It, Zebe

A bloc of senatorial "agrarians" who haven't been back to the farm in so many years they don't know it has inside plumbing will make a blooper if they keep pushing the corn tassel for America's national flower.

They are hoping to sweeten up their constituents. But it's our notion that they haven't talked to their constituents at close range for so long they have lost touch with rural reality.

There isn't a farmer of our acquaintance who thinks of a corn tassel as a flower. Farmers may admire a tassel in the same way they admire a head of wheat, which also is mighty sweet sight. But farmers do not think of corn tassels as posies. That is the kind of thing that only a politician shilling for eternal gratitude would dream up.

Whatever Congress may choose as a national flower, it should be a flower. David Burpee, the seed man, is proposing the marigold, because it is a native flower and can be grown anywhere by anyone. At least it's a flower, even if its odor leaves much to be desired.

The easiest way to learn bookkeeping is not to lend them to forgetful people.

Once Over

Mikoyan's cross-country American tour in "The Man Who Came to DINNER" is over but the public dizziness lingers on. The only certainty is that the United States will need a new format for welcoming home American heroes, crusaders for free world and other native champions of democracy if welcome is to come close to that given the No. 2 leader of country which blitzes everything Uncle Sam stands for.

It is not on record that big bankers, top industrialists, ex-governors, ex-senators, etc. ever went overboard so far in rolling out the red mat for homecoming wounded GI's as they did for Mikoyan.

It is not on record that big bankers, top industrialists, ex-governors, ex-senators, etc. ever went overboard so far in rolling out the red mat for homecoming wounded GI's as they did for Mikoyan.

Mikoyan didn't get an "Oscar" in Hollywood but it was close.

Eric Johnston started "Man Who Came to Dinner" routine starring the agent of the regime which threatens America every hour on the hour, fills nation with spies and makes life tougher for every American man, woman and child.

The movie comic embraced Mikoyan, producers gave him a Nice Nelly reception and it looked as if there might be another western starring "Heigh Ho" Mikoyan in movie titled "Supermarket Metal-Wagon Tran" (with free popcorn and dishes).

WHAT FLOORED John Q. Public, boys in services and mom and pop was way one university chancellor, foremost bankers and big biz men outside Eric Johnston and the movie folks, thus helping the Soviet get across picture of Mikoyan chuckling kiddies under the chin, handing Russian candy (lollipop) to Baby Snooks, shopping for lighter furniture and registering in all minds as a "little ray of sunshine."

Fortunately no pictures were snapped of Mikoyan in a rocking chair of Whistler's Mother type, kitten in his lap and lovebirds on his shoulder and giving an impersonation of Good Humor man, for an encore.

Courtesy is fine. Anything that helps peace is okay. But "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" note sent millions of Americans to aspirin cabinet. Next week: Khrushchev's Flying Circus.

IKE SELDOM looked healthier than at the Press Club dinner. It proved, too, that he is a much better off-the-cuff speaker than when reading. If he would fire his ghost writers and express himself his own way he would have no trouble leading the nation.

What was Mikoyan really shopping for in a big department store? (1) Ten yards of wool for pulling over our eyes; (2) more artistic iron curtain-rod; (3) a high-speed baloney slicer; (4) a chemical thumb; (5) an intercontinental honey jar; (6) self-operating siren; (7) a whistle for summoning bigger motorcycle escorts. He took the store escalators and violated Soviet rules by taking the "down" side without claiming he was going "up."

Mikoyan declared the furniture too heavy, and said Russia was interested only in lighter stuff.

Maybe lightweight lawn furniture for throwing at Geneva and reading-table so light it will creak the minute an unapproved book is placed on it.

Soviet light furniture yen has already resulted in collapsible chair for Presidium members who get out of favor overnight.

To Maintain a Balance

Composing Computers

By RAY CROMLEY

Scientists looking into the future, see a world of machines.

They discussed these disturbing prospects, each technically possible, at a meeting here:

A machine that could write poetry.

A machine that could design and "paint"—either in the style, say, of Leonardo da Vinci, or in a modern style all its own.

A machine that could write plays for Broadway theaters.

A machine able to design houses with the originality of a Frank Lloyd Wright.

Even a machine that would be able to concoct new jokes for comedians such as Bob Hope or Danny Kaye or "hit" tunes for a musical comedy.

THESE MACHINES are all—well, almost all—some distance in the future.

But to show they weren't fooling, the scientists played music

"composed" by one such machine. Some pieces were 16th Century classical, some modern, some futuristic and "experimental."

Critics say some of the machine's best are "not bad at all." In fact they're said to be better than the works of some modern composers. "And the machine's just getting on to the hang of this business."

Dr. Lejaren Hiller, the machine's master—or slave—is a University of Illinois professor. He's now working on a way to get the computing machine to play music as well as compose it.

BUT DR. HILLER warned privately that he could turn out a thousand new rock and roll tunes in a few days on his machine. thousand new rock and roll tunes in a few years, if he chose. "It's a simple formula," said Hiller. Oh, professor!

Other scientists demonstrated what their machines could do in translating French into English in figuring out the missing words in tattered Dead Sea Scrolls dating from Biblical times, in indexing libraries of books, in calculating who properly should be admitted into college.

Don't get the idea machines necessarily will take over civilization. Men will be necessary to formulate the overall concepts or formulas fed into the machines. But these men will be mathematicians. Mathematicians—not machines—may be the real danger.

Dr. Hiller's computing machine already is able to compose for string quartet, for violin, for piano, or for a whole orchestra. It should be possible by proper equations to finish—in his own style—any one of the great "unfinished" pieces great composers have left undone at death.

ACTUALLY, the computing machine operates in a pretty straightforward way in turning out a piece of music. The human composer first works out the "rules" for whatever kind of music he is writing, say point and counter point.

He feeds these rules into the machine. He also formulates a general equation which expresses the concept or story—and major and minor themes — he wishes the music to portray. Then he presses the button.

Within the rules the man has laid down, the machine haphazardly comes up with this tone or that, then another and another and another. It automatically fits the rules and the formula.

The machine thus produces a large number of variations on what the human composer had in his mind. He—the composer—can take his choice of the music coming out of the machine endlessly at a rate five times as fast as a pianist or orchestra could play it. For poetry, architecture, painting, making up jokes or stage plays, machines would operate much in the same way.

All this providing that the artist also knows his mathematics. This could erase the whole equation.

Cuban 'Lynch Law'

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Savage Executions Are Condoned in U.S.

Two wrongs do not make a single right. This moral principle seems to have been abandoned not only in Cuba but by some people inside this country who condone that savagery which has prompted the execution of dozens of persons without trial.

For, on the radio and in some press comments, the statement has been made that the executed Cubans deserved their fate because they committed crimes under Dictator Batista. This is the language of "lynch law" which has too often been used by the mob in an attempt to justify excesses.

Shall the United States government and the governments of Latin America, however, stand by and utter no word of protest about what has been happening in Cuba? Fidel Castro, the Cuban revolutionary chief, may say it's an "internal affair." Only a day or so ago in Washington Soviet Deputy Premier Mikoyan reproached the American government and the United Nations for "meddling in the internal affairs of Hungary."

Cuba wouldn't be free and independent today if the United States had considered what was happening in Cuba an "internal affair," instead of sending troops to that island in 1898 to help liberate its people from Spanish savagery and tyranny.

IT WOULD not have been of any avail to Cuba if the United States had not in those days manifested its horror over what was happening in Cuba and followed it up with military intervention when an American warship was blown up in Havana Harbor.

Can any government which does not give a fair trial to a person accused of crime be regarded as civilized? Can any such government be expected to respect the lives and property of foreign residents?

Usually it's the foreigner who suffers when there's a wave of disrespect for law and morals on the part of the government in control.

Fidel Castro is a graduate of a Cuban law school and should know that summary execution of persons on the basis of revenge and without a chance for the accused to have a fair trial is a blot on the record of any government.

He should know, too, that the United States, which stands throughout the world for the principles of decency and respect for human life, cannot remain silent.

Yet about all Castro could think of the other day was that the United States might intervene militarily. So he promptly threatened to massacre Americans.

All the jazz about what a jolly season winter is means nothing after Jan. 15. By that time everybody is sick of winter and in a mood to hang on desperately through what is universally thought of as a cruel ordeal.

'Thou Shalt Not Kill'

Since when is wholesale murder, such as is taking place in Cuba, justifiable?

God says, "Thou shalt not kill. How then can anyone say that it is all right?"

Jesus said, "love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you."

The United States has protested this slaughter in Cuba and rightfully so, for our motto is "In God We Trust." If we trust in God we must keep His commandments.

It is high time we bared our opinions on the Word of God and not on the opinions of man. Why not preach the gospel to them, perchance a few might be converted. It would be much cheaper. People would be much happier and Christ would be exalted.

Esther Heinze,
RD 1, Salem

Under such circumstances, the policy of the United States government must be one of caution. Already diplomatic recognition has been extended, though it was perhaps done too hastily. No new American ambassador, however, has as yet been sent to Havana and there is still an opportunity for more deliberate approach to the problem of appraising the government that has arisen in Cuba.

The Department of State could send a special envoy to explore the situation while the Senate takes its time about confirming the new ambassador, Philip Bonsal, now on duty at the head of our embassy in Bolivia.

Experienced though Mr. Bonsal is, there would be an advantage in delaying his arrival in Havana until a thorough examination has been made by a special envoy of just what the situation is now and is likely to be in the future.

CITIZENS of the United States have big investments in Cuba, and it is important, of course, to know how these are going to be treated. But far more important is what the attitude of the government is to be toward human life.

The cry that there must be revenge and reprisals does not in the long run benefit any 20th century government, least of all when it is only 90 miles away from this country and has been known throughout the world as the foster child of the United States since the day independence was achieved for Cuba through the blood sacrifices of American soldiers and sailors.

Hot tempers may explain away what has happened in the last few weeks in Cuba, but they do not excuse what has happened. The purpose may have been to intimidate the people of Cuba so that they will not venture to vote freely in any future election—if, indeed, such an election is going to be held.

The United States can always extend "de facto" recognition where a military commander is in control and there are no unsettled disputes between our government and the country where a revolution has occurred.

Control is a factual matter. But "de jure" recognition—which means recognition of a lawfully constituted government—should await the expression by the people there in a free election.

It will not serve the cause of American idealism to ignore the issue in Cuba while we call for free elections in East Germany and the captive states bordering on the Soviet empire.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a majority of whom are Democrats, have an opportunity to present a united front along with the State Department in inquiring into how the situation in Cuba is developing before the new American ambassador is sent to Havana.

This And That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a weekend guest for your country place, don't overlook Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He tells friends that washing dishes on vacation is his idea of "sheer recreation."

Speaking of vacations, someone overheard this remark: "The major trouble with this world is that the average woman wants a little more out of life than the average man can afford."

We brag about our cleanliness, but it is estimated there are still 8½ million U. S. homes without private bath or shower.

Remember when nearly every city man dreamed of retiring to the country and making an independent living off five acres? It's more of a nightmare today. The cost of farm land has risen 50 per cent since 1950—and in some areas it has tripled in the last 15 years.

While in Hollywood, says Lisa Kirk, she overheard a 10-year-old boy tell his girl friend: "I really love you. When we grow up, I want you to be my first wife!"

News note: "Woman faint and cry and live longer for it." But putting up with it sure kills off us men.

No wonder a baby grows at its highest rate during the first year of life. Here's what it eats on the average: 765 cans of baby food, 337 cans of evaporated milk, 22 pounds of sugar and syrups, 30 cans of juices—plus all the crackers it doesn't throw on the floor.

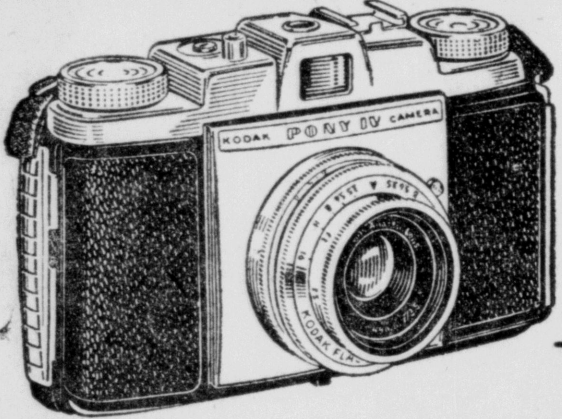

Can you name the biggest college town in America? It's New York which now has 233,000 college students.

It was Edmund Burke who observed: "All that is necessary for the forces of evil to win in the world is for enough good men to do nothing."

Texas contains 249 times the land area of Rhode Island.

DiSalle Visits Mount Vernon

Ohio's Governor Inspects Damage

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—A serious and thoughtful Gov. Michael V. DiSalle surveyed receding flood waters in this Knox County city Wednesday night and expressed belief that "God must have been watching."

The governor referred to the remarkable fact that, despite damages of more than two million dollars, there was no loss of life; in fact, not even one single serious injury.

"You just can't read about something like this or look at pictures and visualize what such a catastrophe means," the governor said on the ride back to Columbus in today's early morning hours.

"It is something you have to see, but still something you don't like to see," the governor continued. "The people and officials of Mount Vernon are to be commended for the fast and orderly evacuation."

A National Guard "six by six" truck carried DiSalle, Adj. Gen. Loren Windom, State Highway Safety Director Grant Keys, and a group of newsmen on a tour of the flooded area and across a bridge which just three hours before was in the doubtful class. It had been feared it would collapse.

The water had receded about three feet when the truck crossed the flood-swollen Kokosing River, but three feet of water still raced across the bridge deck.

The approach to the bridge, which normally carries Ohio 13 traffic into the city from the south, was covered by two feet of water.

The truck lurched and swayed as it dropped into holes washed out by a current that forced the National Guard to keep its "ducks" parked on side streets out of reach. The "ducks" are designed for amphibious travel, but the current of the angry Kokosing was too much for them.

DiSalle was greeted at City Hall by Mayor Phillip Mauger, who had proclaimed a state of emergency at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

"The worst is over," said Mauger. "Three thousand persons are either sleeping or else are housed in homes or buildings other than their own. Everything is under control."

Troops from two companies of the National Guard patrolled the city streets. They even stopped an AP reporter by sticking a gun in his stomach as he left the party and walked to the Mount Vernon News Building.

Sandwiches, coffee and doughnuts were handed out to anyone and everyone who wanted them. DiSalle said he was "surveying the area for a first hand opinion of what is happening here."

He said he wanted to compile all of the information possible and get as many photographs as possible to send to Washington in the hopes Mount Vernon could qualify for federal flood disaster relief.

City Engineer Richard Moffitt estimated that damage would total at least two million dollars, but the governor said he was of the opinion the figure is conservative.

The tour had its lighter side. Upon reaching the flood waters just outside the city limits in South Vernon, DiSalle and party took shelter in the candle-lighted home of Robert Odell.

The Odells were housing seven flood refugees. The governor complimented them.

"You might be interested to know, governor," said Odell, "that I am the Republican committeeman for this precinct."

Storm

that a full crew of men worked through the night to restore electricity to many area homes. He said there were many cases of lines down.

The worst area was in the Springfield-Petersburg area where broken tree limbs mangled lines. Workmen were called out at 10:30 p.m. and worked till relieved by day crews this morning.

Other hard hit areas were just east of Lisbon and at Guilford Lake.

funds under labor-management contracts. The 1958 Democratic state platform pledged the action. The Ohio Supreme Court held recently that SUB payments must be considered remuneration and, under the law, must be deducted from state benefits.

Amendments Offered

Two constitutional amendments were offered Wednesday—one in each house—to set uniform time in Ohio. The aim is to avoid the confusion which arises during the summer months when part of the state is on daylight savings time and the rest is on standard time. Also proposed was a modernization of Ohio's Sunday "blue laws" which permit only work of necessity on the Sabbath.

The House passed, 111-17, and sent to the Senate an emergency bill to increase the salary of the superintendent of insurance from $10,320 to $14,000. Final passage will complete Gov. DiSalle's salary adjustment program for his cabinet. Beneficiary of the increase will be Edward A. Stowell of Toledo, who will take over the insurance post as soon as the salary increase is signed by the governor.

Four-Mill Levy To Go On Leetonia's Primary Ballot

LEETONIA — A resolution was adopted Wednesday evening by Village Council to place a 4-mill current expense levy on the ballot at the May primaries. The levy will be for two years.

Mayor Ralph Kennedy submitted his annual report for 1958 which showed receipts totaling $4,673.30.

A breakdown showed the following: fines and costs, $3,060.30; parking meter, $458; vendors licenses, $57; and pin ball licenses $1,098.

Disbursements went to: Village, $4,007.45; state $616.75; and county, $49.10.

During 1958, the mayor heard 34 state highway patrol cases; five Ohio Division of Wildlife; eight county and 58 local for a total of 105 cases. Three state cases are pending in Common Pleas Court.

The appointment of Eldon Holt Jr. as fire chief was made by Mayor Kennedy, and confirmed by Council.

Mr. Kennedy reported he had declared a state of emergency late in the afternoon due to the flooded conditions in the village. Since the village was divided by the flood waters, a Civil Defense truck was secured to provide fire protection to residents on the south side.

Council requested Mayor Kennedy to contact Joseph McSweeney of Norfolk, Va., an industrial planning commission, to discuss industrial integration for the village.

Solicitor Edward Greenamy was authorized to instruct the village surveyors, Allen and Allen, to survey the flood project area where land easements are to be secured.

Councilmen Jessie Nicolette, Victor Hehl, Dan Cullinan, Joseph Weikart, Richard Carney and James Ciminelli were present.

people were evacuated from their homes. The city engineer said the damage would amount to more than 2 million dollars.

In Newark, the Licking River overflowed and made hundreds homeless.

Near Springfield, on a patch of high ground surrounded by flood waters, 18 persons, including five would-be rescuers, were stranded in automobiles.

Eighteen men perched on top of automobiles in a Newark parking lot. It was hours before rescuers could get to them.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle surveyed the damage in Mount Vernon. He said he was sure the city would qualify for federal disaster aid.

After the power was restored there and the Kokosing River receded 24 inches in 5½ hours, Mayor Phillip Mauger of Mount Vernon declared the flood was under control.

"We hope the worst is over," he said.

For some Ohio families, though, the worst was still to come. Drownings were being reported.

In Newark, a body was seen floating in the waters.

Near Cleveland, an amphibious rescue truck capsized in the Cuyahoga River. Four Army reservists swam to safety. Another was missing and presumed drowned.

A boat was carrying a father and three of his children to safety when it capsized near the small community of Venice, near Cincinnati. Six-year-old Diana Meed apparently drowned. The father and his two other children were saved.

At Lebanon, Johnny Tucker, 17, was carrying his family's belongings to a truck. But when he tried to board the vehicle, he slipped, fell into the flood waters and did not reappear.

Two Plead Innocent To Jury Indictments

LISBON — Robert Scott Schultz, 23, of 337 Ray St., East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty at arraignment Wednesday for illegal possession and stealing narcotics from East Liverpool City Hospital Dec. 13.

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp set bond in the indictment on the two charges at $3,500.

Robert Higgins, 27, of East Liverpool RD 1 pleaded not guilty to robbery of Clyde Finley of Chester, July 17 and Judge Sharp set bond at $2,000.

The two were excused from pleading Monday morning by Judge Sharp when their attorneys couldn't be present.

Middleton Twp. Fire Loss $37,000 in '58

Fire damage in Middleton Township for 1958 was $37,000, according to a report by Fire Chief Don Mahon of the Negley Fire Department. The Negley Department has the contract for the entire township.

Nineteen fires were reported, including eight grass fires which burned off 400 acres, three homes and three trailer homes. Twenty-six first aid calls were answered.

EAST PALESTINE — City sewer and street crews worked until late last night pumping out the catch basins and drains to eliminate the flood waters in the city.

Strong west to northwesterly winds fanned the cold air into the Ohio Valley and to the Gulf, ending a brief period of spring-like temperatures.

Campus-Type High School Vital, Exciting, Colorful, Plush

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—I attended a high school of tomorrow.

It's the new seven-building Fairmont High School in suburban Kettering, Ohio's first campus-type high school.

I found the new Fairmont vital, exciting, colorful—and plush.

I left me wishing I could go back to school again. It also made me wonder what students there will have to look forward to in college.

These are some of the unique physical features of the $4,100,059 high school:

1. It is divided into three identical sub-schools, each of which contains facilities for academic subjects. The three "little schools" then share four other buildings which house the auditorium, library, gym, cafeteria, shops, music business and driver training departments, and administrative offices.
2. One-story construction eliminates crowded areas and stairwells found in traditional 2,000-pupil high schools. Instead, students gather in foyers of each building. These are furnished for the purpose with bright modern furniture.
3. The ease of building small units has made it possible to turn difficult features of the 63-acre site into positive values. For instance, a depression at the rear of the administrative building has been converted into an outdoor theater which will seat 3,000.
4. Classrooms seem like "fish bowls" due to extensive use of glass and glass block. Even the wall toward the corridor is of glass. Principal Richard R. Somers reports this helps keep conduct at a high level.
5. Focal point for the bright modern architecture is a flood-lighted 14 by 17-foot elevated mural in the foyer of the auditorium-administration building. Viewers are divided about its artistic merits. But everyone sees it—as architect Rial Parrish had envisioned.

There are advantages and disadvantages of the campus-type school. Here are a few I found as "Student 1,651" at Fairmont:

Advantage—There is closer pupil-teacher, pupil-administrator, even pupil-pupil relationship in the three small "schools within a school." Yet many areas of study are available that only a large high school can offer.

Disadvantage—There is danger that individual units may become more dominant than the school. The auditorium seats 840, just enough for one building at a time or for one class at a time.

Advantage—Students find trips between buildings are relaxing and refreshing, especially when the weather is good.

Disadvantage—Walk coverings do not offer adequate protection from rain, wind and snow. Many students carry coats with them to avoid exposure when changing from one building to another.

Advantage—Through decentralization, there is no overcrowding. The disciplinary problems that are caused by a large building are eliminated.

Disadvantage—They throw their coats over chairs.

Advantage—With three unit buildings, there is an opportunity for more students to assume leadership and to develop.

Disadvantage—Such campus-type schools are not practical in congested areas where there is no space to spread out.

Advantage—Construction costs are cheaper for one-story buildings than for a massive, all-inclusive building under one roof.

Disadvantage—The cost of operation is higher. More administrators and maintenance people are needed. And each building has its own heating plant, student lounge and administrative offices.

One other disadvantage, especially in the eyes of the students, is the difficulty of moving between buildings in the five minutes allowed for changing classes.

Supt. Dwight L. Barnes claims that the costs of the building units—slightly more than four million dollars—"did not run any more than if the high school had been built under one roof." He can give figures for Troy, Indianapolis and Parma to prove his point.

Fairmont has a 63-acre campus with one acre devoted to the new Morain-Kettering Library.

Completion of the new school is a real step into tomorrow.

On the Bookshelves

Listing of New Books at Salem Public Library

Art books usually fall into one of two groups: collections of reproductions of works of art; or books on artistic technique. "Masters of Modern Art" is an excellent combination of the two, featuring over 350 reproductions of modern paintings and text by A. H. Barr, Jr., Director of the Museum of Modern Art, describing each of the paintings.

Adventure stories about courageous sailors, sea battles and mutiny have great reader appeal. "Seek Out and Destroy" by J.

D. Horan is just such a yarn about a Confederate raider and is running fight with the Union Navy.

OTHER FICTION

"The Visitors" by Mary Mac Minus. A social comedy that is more concerned with characterization than plot. Milly Purdow, wife of an American diplomat abroad, becomes involved in smuggling and gets her name linked romantically with an American foreign correspondent, and eventually loses her husband's job. "Silent One" by Owen Cameron.

The tense situation of a young wife who discovers that her husband is a killer and that she may be next.

"Scent of New-Mown Hay" by John Blackburn. A science fiction thriller about an American scientist's efforts to save mankind when a German experiment goes haywire.

"The Lady Is Waiting" by James Mitchell. A humorous bit of satire about an English schoolmaster's effort to win back his estranged wife. His efforts are hindered by the advances of other predatory females.

"Street of Fear" by Julius Fast. Through a young surgeon searching New York's East Side for the person who knifed his brother we see the whole shocking story of the danger citizens are in who walk through the streets at night.

"The Risk" by Cecilia Bartholomew. The story about a housing development where David and Kate Miller are accused of being Communists by an envious neighbor. Before the charge is refuted the private lives of the entire community come to light.

"Champagne for One" by Rex Stout. Nero Wolfe discovers the identity of the person who put poison in a young woman's champagne glass at a party.

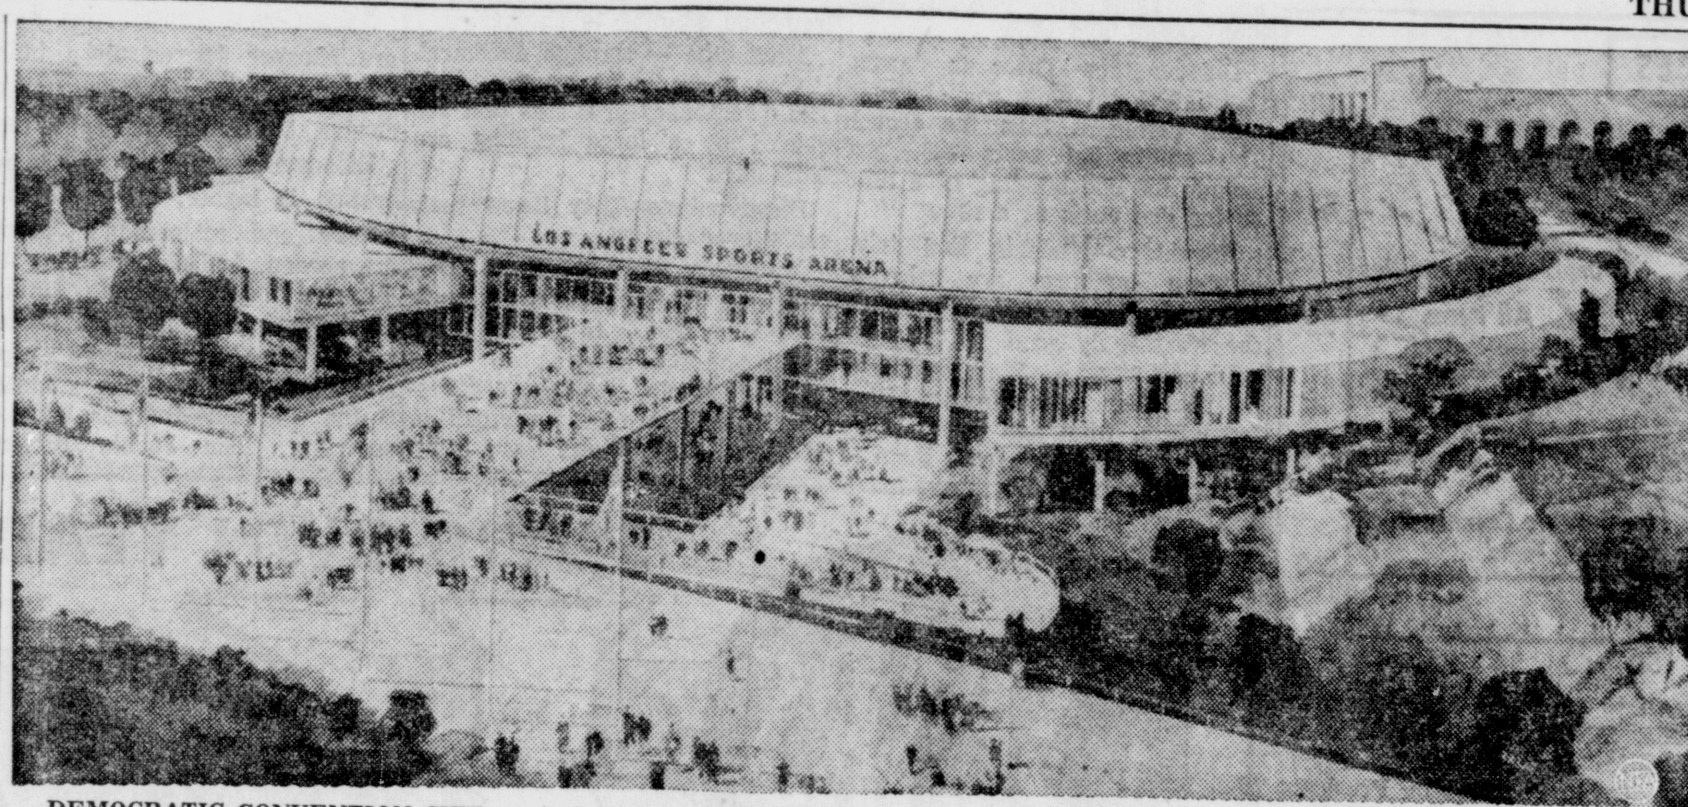

"Mrs. Arris Goes to Paris" by Paul Gallico. A wonderful fairy tale of a London cleaning woman who goes to Paris to accomplish her dream of owning a Dior original.

NON-FICTION

"Fishing America" edited by C. R. Meyer. A guide to the places in America, both salt water and fresh water, where fishing is most productive or most exciting. The book gives area maps, lists of indigenous fish, equipment needed, record catches, and contains enough pictures and full-color illustrations to satisfy every fisherman.

"Golfing America" edited by Al Laney. A companion to "Fishing America" telling the golf enthusiast about the most difficult golf courses in America. The book contains hole by hole information and tells how professionals have played the courses in tournament competition.

"West of the Indus" by W. O. Douglas. Another volume on Asia by the Supreme Court Justice. Douglas tells of his trip from DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION SITE — Artist's conception shows how the Los Angeles Memorial Sports Arena will look when completed in May. The Democrats have chosen to hold their 1960 convention in the new building.

Pakistan to Istanbul with descriptions of ancient and modern events and scenery.

1959 St. Louis Cardinals to Count on 16 Freshman Hurlers

NEW YORK (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals apparently are going to leave it to eager beavers in their 1959 bid to claw their way out of the second division.

Rookies will constitute the greater portion of their roster when the Red Birds line up before their new manager, Solly Hemus, on opening day of spring training next month. In addition, there will be at least a half dozen fledglings on the squad getting thorough tests. Only the matter of book keeping and the 40-player limit keep their names from being on the parent club roster.

Bing Devine, the Cards' personable general manager, is fully aware of the reason for the club's failure last year — lack of sufficient pitching and power. He has brought up 16 freshmen hurlers and a couple of long ball hitting outfielders in an effort to plug the weakness.

The best of the new pitchers may be Ernie Broglio, 23, Nelson Chittum, 25, and Marshall Bridges, 27. All are righthanders. Others rated a fair chance to stick are right handers Bob Blaylock, 23, and Dick Ricketts, 25, and southpaws Ray Luebke, 23 and Bill Smith, 24.

Broglio was acquired in a post-season trade with the San Francisco Giants. The husky Californian had a brilliant top minor league record in 1958. After coping eight out of nine decisions with Phoenix in the Pacific Coast League he was switched to Toronto where he posted a 9-3 record.

Chittum was brought up after compiling a 12-8 half-season mark in Omaha where he turned in a fine .273 ERA. Bridges was purchased from Sacramento where he won 16 while losing 11.

Blaylock was 8-14 at Omaha but the Card brass liked what they saw of him in Japan. Ricketts was 15-13 at Rochester. Luebke, a relief pitcher, was drafted from San Antonio where he was 11-7. Smith, who also specializes in saving games, was 12-9 at Omaha.

Frank Barnes, Gary Blaylock (no relation to Bob) and Phil Clark are back for another trial. Ellis Burton, a switch-hitter from Houston, may have the best chance to break into the outfield.

Only 22, he came fast in the closing weeks of the season to finish with a .286 batting average. He can play any infield position as well as the outfield.

Joe Durham, 26, was drafted from Vancouver where he batted .285, hit 181 home runs and drove in 85 runs. Charley James, a young bonus outfielder, bears watching. He drove in 104 runs for Houston in his first year of professional ball and was voted the Texas League's rookie of the year.

Wally Shannon, Duke Carmel, Jim McKnight and Lee Tate are the new infielders. Shannon, son of Walter Shannon, the Cards' able farm director, batted .350 for Houston the last half of the season to finish with .290.

Carmel, a New York City product, is a power hitter when he connects, which hasn't been often enough. He hit 15 home runs at Houston and Rochester but his average in both places was under .260.

Veterans Guide

(By Veterans Administration)
Q—I understand that generally a child must be over 18 to train under the War Orphans Education Act. I already have completed high school, but won't be 18 for several months. Could an exception be made in my case?

A—Yes. If VA finds it would be in your best interest to commence training before age 18, an exception could be made.

Q—A neighbor of ours, a blind veteran, is about to make application to VA for a seeing eye or guide dog. Who bears the expense of training the veteran to use the dog, the veteran himself or VA?

A—VA will provide the dog, and also pay the expense of training the veteran to use it, and any expenses incidental to necessary medical attention for the dog.

Q—Does a Spanish-American War Veteran have to be disabled in order to draw a VA pension?

A—Not necessarily. VA pensions are payable to Spanish-American War veterans over 62 years of age, even though they may not be disabled.

Q—The VA has just declared my disability connected to my military service, and I am eligible to apply for service-disabled Korean veterans insurance. How soon do I have to apply?

A—You must make application within one year from the date VA found your disability service-connected.

Doby Reportedly Takes Cut for 1959 Season
CLEVELAND (AP)—Salaries of major league baseball players can be cut no more than 25 per cent in a year, and Larry Doby's check apparently has been trimmed almost that much.

His signed contract has been received by the Cleveland Indians, for whom the veteran outfielder played only 89 games last year. He hit .283.

He is believed to have been paid about $33,000 last year. The guess for this year is around $30,000.

The club has announced the signing of 30 players. Only eight have not been accounted for.

Besides Doby, two others were listed yesterday. They were Dale Bennett, a rookie outfielder drafted from Buffalo, and Ray Webster, an infielder drafted from Sacramento.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

It would cost us 100 million dollars to make a Soviet type moon shot, Pentagon scientists, afflicted with a bad case of budgetitis, tell you in awe. By comparison, a big missile is dirt cheap, just 35 million dollars, though one twisted wire or one badly soldered electronic part can burn up before it gets higher than the commanding officer's temper.

Yet, despite the high cost of lifting one of these celestial gadgets this government has been forced to permit some 2,000 known Communists and professional saboteurs to work in classified plants which turn out parts and assemble component sections of missiles for the big race.

For well over a year the Pentagon has been seeking the power to get these "workers" fired — or at least shifted completely out of the secret plants. They told the House Un-American Activities Committee about it in detailed testimony.

That was on Oct. 9, 1957. On that day, five top Pentagon counter-intelligence and security officers went up The Hill.

THEY ARE ALL respected men. They said there were 2,000 known saboteurs. They warned that they could not guarantee Americans adequate protection against industrial espionage and sabotage. To make this record solid, here are the men who testified:

A. Tyler Port, director, Office of Personnel Security; Robert Applegate, staff director, Industrial Security Programs Division; Paul Goldsborough, staff director, Communications Division; John H. Fanning, then director of domestic programs; and Jack L. Stempler, assistant general counsel of the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

Port said: "Acts of sabotage and espionage are usually committed by an individual or several individuals, rather than by an organization. Consequently, any preventive or corrective measures taken should be directed against such misguided persons and not necessarily against organizations to which they belong."

"The Defense Dept. cannot bring about the dismissal of such persons even though their continued presence in the facility may constitute a real threat to the security of our military secrets in the facility."

THE SAME WARNING was bluntly handed the Senate Internal Security sub-committee by Secretary of the Army Wilbur Brucker. He said that unless legislation is passed he can not assure the nation of "adequate internal security against sabotage."

The Pentagon simply wanted a law which could move some 2,000 identified potential saboteurs not only from a secret department but from the factory itself.

At the moment the Pentagon can only lift a suspect out of a classified division. I cannot, for example, get a janitor fired even if he is a known member of the Communist party. That's a fact.

A proposed law was written. It was HR 3788. It was called the Defense Facilities Protection Act. No one heeded the House Un-American Activities Committee. The bill died.

Committee member Gordon Scherer finally reported on the floor of the house the other day

Crisp Onion Rings Garnish This Popular Pizza

The growing popularity of pizza is evidenced by the mushrooming of shops specializing in this Italian delicacy. Pizza lovers attack the combination of rich crust, bubbly cheese and an assortment of toppings with the gusto of a gourmet.

Many pizza fanciers are pleasing families and guests by serving pizzas made from mixes, an easy way to use their own imaginations in combining favorite foods as toppings.

Such a dish is Crunch-Top Pizza, which is sprinkled lavishly with French fried onion rings.

1 package pizza mix, 1/4 pound very sharp aged cheddar cheese, 1 can French fried onion rings.

Prepare pizza dough as directed on package. Let rise. Pat out in oiled pizza pan, or use 2 9-inch pie plates or an oiled baking sheet. Spread dough with sauce. Cover with thin slices of cheese. Bake in preheated hot oven of 425 degrees for 20 minutes.

Remove from oven, sprinkle generously with canned French fried onion rings, and return to oven.

Cleveland visited her parents, Rev and Mrs. Larkin Hadley.

The Friends Christian Endeavor was led by Miss Faye Geary.

Rev. and Mrs. John Powell, pastors of the Trinity Friends Church of Lisbon, have been in charge of the music during the revival at the First Friends Church of Salem. In their absence from Trinity Church Rev. Thomas Riley of Winona and Rev. Larkin Hadley of Winona have supplied the pulpit.

The School of Missions at the Methodist Church convened with classes for various ages.

Mrs. Vesta Randall of Damascus called on Rev. Larkin and Myrtle Hadley.

Beefburgers Flavorful With Juice and Shreaded Potatoes

Canned vegetable juice and shredded potato add new flavor to ground beef patties in this recipe for Potato Beefburgers.

Designed for the cook hurrying to meet a mealtime deadline, these tasty main dish offerings sacrifice nothing in the way of flavor or nutrition.

Here's the recipe for potato beefburgers:

1 pound ground beef, 1 medium-size potato, shredded (about ¾ cup), 1 small onion, finely chopped about ¼ cup) 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, Dash black pepper, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1½ tablepo o n shortening, 1 can (12 ounces) vegetable juice.

Combine beef, potato, onion, green pepper, salt pepper and egg; mix gently with fork until well blended. Form into 6 patties. Brown patties in shortening. Lower heat; pour juice over patties. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes. During last 7 or 8 minutes of cooking remove cover so sauce will thicken slightly. Makes six servings.

MEASLES TOLL REPORTED

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some 31,138 Ohioans contributed to the record number of measles cases recorded across the nation in 1952 but no state records were set. Nationally, more than 750,000 cases were reported, for the biggest total since 1941, when there were 890,134. But, although Ohio's 31,138 brought a sharp climb from 8,627 reported in 1951, it was still under 44,592 reported in 1950, the State Health Department said.

COLUMBIANA

Council Grants Pay Increase to Workers

COLUMBIANA — Pay raises for village employees were approved, a street commissioner appointed, and a police cruiser purchased in major items of business at the village council meeting Tuesday night.

Third and final reading of the ordinance setting up pay boosts was approved by a 5 to 1 vote of council, the same vote as recorded in the previous readings.

Lone dissenter was Councilman Wayne Paulson, who has held that present conditions do not warrant a general wage increase. Councilmen G. Charles Fisher, K. T. Gormley, Herbert Sponseller, G. A.

Zellers and Harry Fullerton have voted in favor of the bill, which goes into effect Feb. 21, following the legal 30-day waiting period.

The wage boosts figure out generally to $30 a month for salaried employees and 10 cents per hour for hourly-paid workers.

COUNCIL CONFIRMED Mayor E. L. Calvin's appointment of Carl Spratt as street commissioner. The one-year appointment will mark Spratt's ninth year in the post. Council also adopted an ordinance boosting the commissioner's salary to $425 per month — effective Feb. 21 — so it will be in line with salaries of other department heads.

The legislators also accepted as lowest and best the bid of the Koch Motor Co. in the amount of $2,297 for supplying to the village a 1959 Ford tudor sedan for use as a police cruiser.

An allowance of $750 for the present 1957 cruiser was accepted, making the purchase price $1,547. Delivery is expected within 30 days.

In other business, council granted permission for Ralph's Cab Co. to reserve two parking spots in front of its S. Main St. office for exclusive taxi use. The body also gave American Legion Post 290 permission to stage a Memorial Day parade in the village on May 30, and for its annual street fair, scheduled Sept. 10, 11 and 12.

Police Chief William McGuckin presented for council's study his budget for 1959, estimating total cost of police department operations for the year at $31,635, compared with actual 1958 costs of $22,048. The chief's 1959 budget is based on a four-man force, which has not been authorized by council. The present department includes two patrolmen and Chief McGuckin.

The chief also issued a resume of department operations for the past year, showing 113 arrests, chiefly for traffic violations, in addition to 143 citations for parking violations. The report listed 49 traffic mishaps within village limits during the year.

The body is being brought back to Columbiana where Mr. and Mrs. Horn had lived previous to going to Florida. Services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Fry Funeral Home. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday, 7 to 9 p.m.

20 Men Have Applied For State Fair Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Odds are at the moment that the new state fair manager will be a man.

Not that Agriculture Director Robert H. Terhune is ruling out the possibility of a woman getting the job. It's just that none of the 20 applications to date is from a woman.

The official decision is expected a week from today, when the state Board of Agriculture meets at the Ohio Fairgrounds here.

Before that meeting, Terhune explained yesterday, he expects to have reviewed all applications with William L. Coleman, state Democratic chairman. Terhune said he expects a few more applications before that time. None of the 20 applications so far has been solicited, he added.

Salary will depend on civil service regulations applying in the individual's case, Terhune said. D. Robert Jones, who leaves the job Feb. 14 after resigning, makes $785 a month, according to civil service records.

Terhune says he wants the new manager to be free to choose his assistants and operate the division for himself. He compares it with hiring a football coach, pointing out that the fair manager will be responsible to the director, but should not be controlled by the top man.

Liz Taylor Tired by Visit to Disneyland

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor was resting her tired feet today after a full day at Disneyland with two of her children and singer Eddie Fisher, her constant companion.

Fisher and Miss Taylor and her two sons by actor Michael Wilding, Michael, 6, and Christopher, 4 took in all the attractions.

"I told her those slippers would not support her," Fisher said as he helped her into a car at the end of the day of sightseeing.

Girl Scout Dives Into Creek to Save Sister

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Girl Scout Diane Ailer of suburban Affton has done her good deed and it should take care of some days to come.

Diane, 12, dived into the frigid waters of a creek and saved her younger sister, Cynthia, and a seven-year-old neighbor Russell Berryman. The two plunged into the water when ice gave way while they were riding on a sled. Neither Cynthia nor Russell can swim.

Dr. Goddard Honored By New Rocket Center

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP)—A rocket center will be opened here April 25 and dedicated to the father of modern rocketry, the late Dr. Robert H. Goddard.

Present at the ceremony will be Hugh Milton, assistant secretary of the Army and former commandant of New Mexico Military Institute here.

Dr. Goddard experimented with rockets north of Roswell in the late 1930s after finding that Massachusetts was too crowded for such research.
